

Events Called “Bloody Sunday” (20 as of 2023)

Bloody Sunday (1887), a combined police and military attack on a demonstration in London, England against British repression in Ireland

Bloody Sunday (1900), a day of high casualties in the Second Boer War, South Africa

Bloody Sunday (1905), a massacre in Saint Petersburg that led to the 1905 Russian Revolution

Bloody Sunday (1911), a police charge on a crowd during the 1911 Liverpool general transport strike

Everett massacre (1916), violence in Washington, United States between trade union members and local authorities

Marburg's Bloody Sunday (1919), a massacre of civilians of German ethnic origin in Maribor during the protest at the central city square

Bloody Sunday (1920), a day in which British soldiers shot civilians during a GAA match in Dublin, Ireland during the Irish War of Independence

Bloody Sunday (1921), a day of violence in Belfast, Northern Ireland during the Irish War of Independence

Bloody Sunday (1923), a day of violence in Cape Breton Island, Nova Scotia during miners' strikes

Bloody Sunday (1926), a day of violence in Alsace

Altona Bloody Sunday (1932), a bloody confrontation among the Sturmabteilung (SA) and Schutzstaffel (SS), the police, and Communist Party (KPD) supporters in Altona, Hamburg

Bloody Sunday (1938), police violence against unemployment protesters in Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada

Bloody Sunday (1939) (Bromberg Bloody Sunday), the name given by Nazi propaganda to events in Bydgoszcz, Poland, at the onset of World War II

Stanislawow Ghetto Bloody Sunday massacre, a massacre of 10,000 to 12,000 Jews before the Stanisławów Ghetto announcement

Bloody Sunday on Volhynia, 1943 massacre of Polish population by OUN-UPA nationalists

Bloody Sunday (1965), the violent suppression of a March 7, 1965 civil rights march in Selma, Alabama by state and local law enforcement

Bloody Sunday (1969), violence after a protest in Taksim Square, Istanbul, Turkey

Bloody Sunday (1972), shooting of civilian protesters by the British Army (Parachute Regiment) in Derry, Northern Ireland

Bloody Sunday Inquiry (1998), an inquiry commissioned by Tony Blair to investigate the killings of 1972

January Events (Lithuania), a January 13, 1991 attack on civilians is referred to as Bloody Sunday in Lithuania

2021 Calabarzon raids, the killing of nine activists and arrest of six individuals in Calabarzon, Philippines, by the Philippine National Police and the Armed Forces of the Philippines